ABOUT ACROSS THE TRADES

Trade publications offer a powerful punch in competitive economic times. In businesses where proactive involvement is critically important, advertising in a trade-specific publication is the best investment a company can make.

Brand Recognition: Demonstrating your activity within a trade is an essential tool in making sure your brand is remembered. When people know your name, you are one step closer to establishing a working relationship.

Visibility: Increasing your visibility increases the avenues in which people learn of your services, skills and contact information.

Credibility: Not everyone knows your business. Advertising in a trade publication gives you the opportunity to demonstrate your niche knowledge from the point of view of an objective observer and gain credibility within the trade, as well as with your potential clients and customers.

Extended Shelf Life: It is proven time and again that magazines have an astonishing shelf life. In the case of Connection Magazines, a surprising number of readers tell us they keep a technical library of their trade publications as a reference to both articles and products they see promoted.

Reach Interested Parties: Readers are engaged in trade publications as their business and family well-being is dependent upon them improving their income through savvy business/work decisions.
